LANDMARK. LOCATION.

The Royal Horseguards is set in the very heart of London. Overlooking the Thames, it is surrounded by streets and buildings where Britain's history has been written – and is still being added to today. Its magnificent Victorian facade harks back to a visionary age when London was the centre of a new, exciting world, and anything seemed possible. An attitude that, like the building itself, we have been careful to preserve.

PERSONAL. SPACE.

It would be hard not to be inspired by the grandeur of the exterior. Our bedroom designers certainly were. Each of our 280 bedrooms has been transformed, combining all the classical elegance of the Victorian building with comforts that are decidedly 21st Century. So at the end of a full day in the bustling capital, The Royal Horseguards provides the perfect place to relax, recharge, and prepare for all that tomorrow promises.

EXTRA. DETAIL.

There is an understated refinement to everything you will find in your room, from the toiletries to the 32-inch LCD TV. And you will find plenty of additional touches, too, like the sumptuous soft furnishings including pure Egyptian cotton bed linen. Even the bed has been designed and made exclusively for Guoman. Comforts that, like the magnificent views from your window, you won't find anywhere else in London.

CONTEMPORARY. ENTERTAINMENT.

When The Royal Horseguards was built, the railway was the latest in technological achievement. Quite what the Victorians would have made of the digital age is anyone's guess. But in keeping with our guests' expectations, and our own desire to help you feel thoroughly at home, we have provided a plasma TV in the bathroom, an iPod docking station, surround sound and free wi-fi internet access in every room.

GUOMAN CLUB LOUNGE

You could choose countless words to describe London. 'Relaxing', however, is unlikely to be one of them. Happily, we have the ideal antidote to the frenetic pace of the City, in the form of our Guoman Club Lounge*. Take advantage of free internet access to work or surf; immerse yourself in our wide selection of newspapers; or simply sit back in front of the plasma TV, enjoying the complimentary soft drinks, tea, coffee and pastries, which are served all day.

CHURCHILL'S BAR

Formerly part of the National Liberal Club – and named after one of its most illustrious members – this splendid room has eased effortlessly into its new role. Welcome to Churchill's Bar. Relax and unwind like the politicians of the past, with an excellent range of drinks, in an atmosphere where tradition meets comfort. An ideal setting for a private party or a drink before the show.

ONE TWENTY ONE TWO

Our former neighbours, the Metropolitan Police, have long since moved to New Scotland Yard. But they have not been forgotten – and nor has their telephone number, once famous throughout London, which now gives our restaurant its rather unusual name. One Twenty One Two offers an innovative menu, superb wine list, the impeccable Guoman standards of service, and a piano bar in which to enjoy an aperitif – or simply a quiet drink when you finally come off duty.

OUTDOOR LIVING

Our outdoor Terrace provides a chance to get away from it all, without even leaving the hotel. Quiet and secluded, it feels a million miles from the hurly-burly of Whitehall and the City. It is a perfect spot to enjoy a drink, or a little al fresco dining, with one of the glories of Victorian London as a backdrop.

BUSINESS. CLASS.

At The Royal Horseguards, and the adjoining One Whitehall Place, we know how to make work into its own kind of pleasure. All of our 15 air-conditioned suites, including the historic and magnificent Reading & Writing Room, are flexible enough to accommodate all types of events, and are equipped with the latest communications and multimedia technology. The ideal business venue, whatever your agenda.

GLADSTONE LIBRARY

One Whitehall Place, our dedicated conference and events facilities, were originally built as the home of the National Liberal Club. Its founder was William Gladstone, four times British Prime Minister, whose name lives on in the Gladstone Library. Although its estimated 30,000 volumes are painstakingly restored replicas, the room itself is just as he would have known it, including the upper levels which now serve as a minstrel's gallery. An inspiring setting for your great occasion.

INSPIRING. SURROUNDINGS.

With its sweeping marble staircase, shimmering chandeliers and soaring ceilings, One Whitehall Place shows the Victorians – literally – at the height of their powers. It makes a memorable setting for your wedding or event, providing ample space for the longest guest-list – and everything you could wish for by way of backgrounds. And with our friendly, professional team on hand to take care of every last detail, One Whitehall Place gives every event a unique sense of occasion.
